

Setting

This takes place either during Season 1 of Terra or 2 years after Season 2 of Terra, the world above the eternal prison of the dead gods is known as 'Terra Genesis' and the place Season 3 will take place is on a nation called 'Arretia' ruled by the 4 houses.

During ancient times, Terra Genesis was a world thriving with deities and mortals alike, but the battle between good and evil never ceased so the Judge together with the twin Sages sealed most of them away in a place called the 'Flipside' and the entrance to it was called 'Terra Ultima' the twin Sages remained in 'Terra Ultima' as the first wardens. The battle scarred Terra Genesis, leaving behind wounds that would never heal and so in act to prevent further war the planet wrapped itself in mist separating all mortals dwelling on the planet.

One of the Gods that was not sealed in the 'Flipside' Arretia the Goddess of Adventure, Wayfaring, Pathfinding, and Death. The nation she presided in was running out of resources as they were famous for being a Trade Country but now that the mist blocked all possible way of trade between nations they were basically facing extinction, so she had a brilliant idea, giving away her authority of Adventure, Pathfinding, and Wayfaring to 3 of her most trusted believers they were able to expand the territory further creating the very first Wayfarers.

Centuries pass the nation now called 'Arretia' after the benevolent goddess who gave up her authority, is facing a problem, overpopulation the ones above thought of a solution Mandatory expeditions into the Mist beyond the borders for criminals and your characters are "criminals" for better or for worse you were charged with crimes you may have done, whatever it was, they caught you and now you're sentenced to be a Wayfarer people to open the path within the mist outside the borders of the nation, it was essentially execution for there have been no successful Wayfarers ever since the first three.

Character Creation Rules

Character Creation rules all characters created will start 'Level 0' you may roll character stats beforehand if you want too.

Stats: All stats start at '10' the stats given by your chosen race will affect this, there is a special stat called 'Sanity' also starts at 10.

Backgrounds: Choose whatever you like within standard and official sources if it is unofficial talk with your DM.

Races: Choose whatever you like within standard and official sources if it is unofficial talk with your DM (Yes I don't mind if you play flying races).

Classes: Choose whatever you like within standard and official sources if it is unofficial talk with your DM.

Deities

Goddess of Death (Arretia): No one really knows what happened after she sacrificed most of her authority and became Death, those who follow her still cling onto their older moniker and pray for her return to guide them yet again to a better path.

Goddess of Fortune and Passage (Ano'Th'ep): Praised by gamblers and adventurers alike Ano'Th'ep is mysterious in her ways as she hasn't intervened in Terra Genesis for quite some time some believe that she was imprisoned along with the other Gods, but if pray to her real hard in front of a locked door, she will open it for you.

God of Dreams and Destiny (Grud): Not much is known about this God, apparently if you ingest enough of certain mushrooms you would dream of him and see a future no one would believe in.

God of Valor, Honor, and Martial Prowess (Brinjai): The most respondent Deity among the 4, helps his believers most and try to better them in terms of martial prowess, but he is the weakest despite all of that.

There are other deities spared from being taken into the depths of 'Terra Ultima' but no one knows of their fate.

The Four Ruling Houses of Arretia

The four ruling houses of 'Arretia' their founders were the ones who saved the nation by using 'Arretia's' Authorities, except for one starting with the weakest House and the one most looked down upon.

Aventar House

Current Head: Alicia Aventar. They did not have any authority of the divine whatsoever; instead they held incredible martial prowess in the first adventure, Aventar was the one who slew the leviathan and saved the three believers from mortal danger. As centuries pass and more expedition failures their standing as one of the ruling houses is being questioned by the public and their peers.

Otamot House

Current Head: Potatoh Otamot. They hold the authority over Pathfinding, although the entire island where their nation sits upon has now been fully discovered, their wealth and knowledge of roads alone proves as to why they are a ruling house in the first place.

Venture House

Current Head: Seraphina Venture

They wield the divine Authority of Adventure, they are the ones who head first into dungeons, unexplored places, and delve into the unknown depths of the endless sea, they are the ones who charted the unknown, bested beasts in battle of wits, and evaded traps. Though there isn't much to venture anymore as the expeditions end up in failures after failure, their standing is still strong.

Pathwise House

Current Head: Elandor Pathwise

They hold the divine Authority of Wayfaring, granting safe passage over the waters, they are the ones who built the one hundred ships of the Wayfarers that can brave whatever is in the mist and return automatically if the expedition fails. The contribution over the waters cannot be compared to the land, but because of the Pathwise they are able to navigate the mist.

-Truth Seeker 'Avenia'